

BPH/Enlarged prostate

We're here to help restore comfort and improve the quality of your life with UroLift

Half of men over the age of 60 have symptoms of enlarged prostate. Benign Prostatic Hyperplasia (BPH), also known as enlarged prostate, is a common condition that affects many men, particularly as they age.

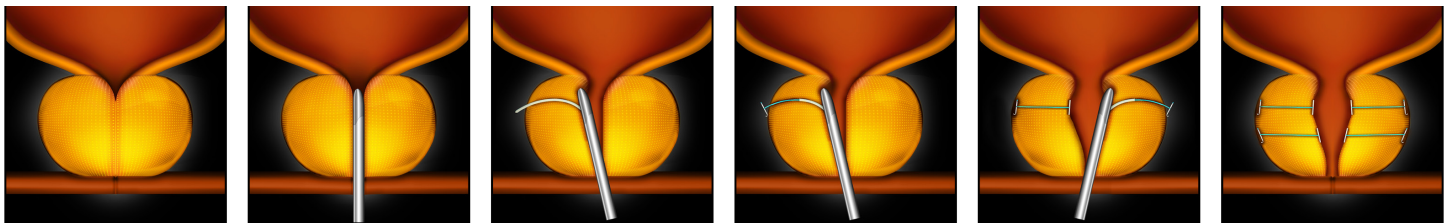

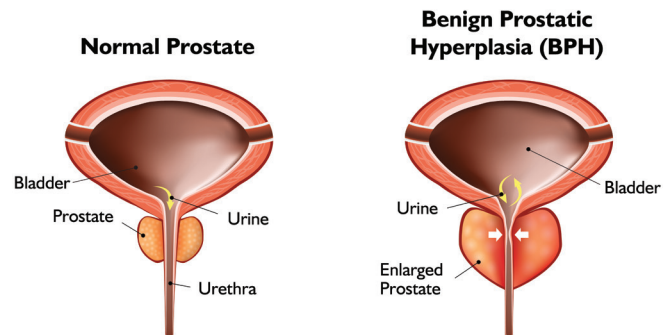

Common symptoms include:

- Frequent urination
- Weak or interrupted urine flow
- Urgent need to urinate
- Difficulty emptying bladder completely
- Waking up at night to urinate
- Straining to void

UroLift is a less-invasive treatment option

Not treating BPH can lead to permanent bladder damage. While traditional surgeries and medications are options for treating BPH, they aren't right for everybody. The UroLift system provides an alternative.

The UroLift system is a medical implant designed to relieve the symptoms of BPH by pulling back the tissue surrounding the urethra. While the device is inserted by a surgeon, it is a less-invasive procedure with no incisions, cutting, or removal of tissue. The best part of the UroLift system is that results are immediate, making it a great option for those who want symptom relief as soon as possible.

When dealing with symptoms of BPH, you don't just have to 'deal with it,' our team is here to help!
